

FIGHT IS RENEWED ON SHIP SUBSIDY

Supporters Reach Point
Where Naval Bills Are Threatened.

By JOHN SNURE.
"No merchant marine, no navy," is the war cry raised by the advocates of a ship subsidy measure. It is likely a great deal will be heard of this at the next regular session. It is not impossible that the appropriations for the navy will be greatly scaled down in consequence of the movement which has been begun along these lines.

As everyone knows, the ship subsidy supporters have been hammering at the doors of Congress for years and without success. Time and again, in fact, in every session in recent years, they have been defeated by a narrow margin. Often they have been just within reach of victory and as often victory has eluded their grasp. But these repeated failures have not discouraged them.

Instead of giving up the fight, there is every indication that the battle for ship subsidy legislation will be waged next winter harder than ever. It will have the backing of President Taft. This is not saying that specific bills will have the President's backing. He is committed to the principle of Government aid in the building up of the American merchant marine.

Campaign of Education.
The men who are backing the movement to get ship subsidy or ocean mail subsidy legislation have perceived, after repeated defeats, that their failures are due to the opposition from the members of Congress who come from the agricultural districts.

They have concluded that the only way to overcome this situation is to undertake an educational campaign in the agricultural States. In pursuance of this idea, they have engaged the services of a number of able speakers who are going about the country, lecturing in advocacy of Government aid to the merchant marine.

Representative J. Sloat Fassett of New York, former Representative J. T. McCleary of Minnesota, former Representative Charles B. Landis of Indiana, and several others are busily engaged in this work in behalf of the subsidy movement and have spoken at strategic points.

The Merchant Marine League, with headquarters in Cleveland, is engineering the efforts of these gentlemen to conduct an educational campaign. It is that campaign should succeed in turning over a few votes in the Senate and House, subsidy legislation would probably be an accomplished fact at the end of the next regular session.

Threaten Naval Bills.
But in addition to their campaign of education, the supporters of a subsidy for the merchant marine have reached the point where they are threatening the naval appropriations unless something is done in behalf of the merchant vessels. It can hardly be believed that their threats will go to the point of actually trying to cut down and hold up naval appropriations unless subsidy legislation is passed. But there can be no doubt that it is the impression given out.

The Merchant Marine League is distributing literature widely, calling attention to the enormous outlay for the navy and for naval construction. It is pointed out that the Merchant Marine League has asked for less than two-tenths of 1 per cent of the money spent on the navy since 1885, yet has not nothing. It is also pointed out that the United States, for all its expenditures of money, has not a fleet which in time of war could not leave the American coast because of a lack of coalers. In this same literature, it is emphasized that the trip of the battleship fleet around the world was not remarkable and that every day in the year tramp steamers pound their way around the world without attracting attention and without their crews thinking they have done anything worthy of note.

"No Merchant Marine, No Navy."
Without directly attacking the policy of large appropriations for the navy, the Merchant Marine League is making war on the idea of enormous naval appropriations without aid for the merchant marine and is apparently bent on keeping up the cry: "No merchant marine, no navy," both before the regular session and after it comes on.

Another method of advancing its cause which the Merchant Marine League has undertaken is to attack the International Shipowners' trust, which is alleged by the Merchant Marine League to be the real power behind the throne in opposition to subsidy legislation. It is alleged by the Merchant Marine League that this trust maintains a powerful lobby in Washington, equipped with unlimited financial resources, for the purpose of defeating all legislation in behalf of an American merchant marine.

Daniel Taylor, a newsboy with an armful of The Times papers was gullible enough to let John Hopkins take his "papers" and 7 cents, while he went on an errand for Hopkins in the hope of making 10 cents, but "de spirits" told him something was wrong, and he returned to find the other colored boy "hiking" down the street.

Irish Boating Accident in Which Americans Were Killed Arouses Comment.

KILLARNEY, June 29.—Despite the verdict of the coroner's jury that the boating disaster in which several American and English tourists lost their lives was the fault of no one, the recommendation of the jury that all such boats be strictly inspected has provoked the suspicion that the jurors considered some evidences of carelessness.

It was indicated during the inquest that the boat was fourteen years old and had been condemned three years ago, but was subsequently overhauled and again placed in service. One of the boatmen, Gleeson, was over seventy years old and was partly paralyzed. Another, Lynch, was considered incompetent.

The third boatman, Leary, said at the time a competent crew could have avoided the accident, although he later testified the storm made it unavoidable.

SORRY ATTACHE LEAVES.

BERLIN, June 29.—"I could shed tears," Emperor Wilhelm said when at Kiel he received the retiring American military attaché, Lieut. Col. John P. Wisser. Capt. Samuel G. Sharpley succeeds Wisser as military attaché.

MAHANOCY CITY, Pa., June 29.—Patrick Grant, a miner, was murdered on the outskirts of the city while returning home with his pay. His skull was fractured, and there were half a dozen stab wounds in his back. Several arrests have been made.

LIGHTNING FIRES OIL TANKS.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 29.—At Torment, Wolfe county, lightning fired four tanks containing 35,000 barrels of oil. The flames mounted hundreds of feet in the air. Burning oil ran down a hill into a creek and blazed on the water for half a mile.

KEEPS ALL THE PAY OF HIS FELLOWS

Eight river men were in Judge Mul-lowny's court this morning as witnesses against Joseph Wheeler, who was accused of getting hold of the pay of all of them and keeping it.

The money was intrusted to his care by Isaac Gaynor, who was the boss in the loading of the boat. When he wanted it back, Wheeler declined to give up the money.

"Jest put de case back for me, Judge, and I will get plenty of witnesses to show that these fellows are lying to you," Wheeler asserted. "Those men have got their money." But the men insisted that they did not get their money, and Judge Mul-lowny thought men who worked in the hold of a boat yesterday ought not be cheated out of it. Wheeler got a sentence of six months in jail.

ROCKEFELLER GOES OFF ON VACATION

NEW YORK, June 29.—John D. Rockefeller will leave Pocantico Hills, his estate near Tarrytown, this morning in his automobile to join Mrs. Rockefeller in New York, and they will start in the afternoon for Cleveland to spend the summer. WAGES ARE RESTORED TO STEEL WORKERS

Corporations Declare Conditions

Are Improved Since General

Cut Was Made.

NEW YORK, June 29.—On July 1, practically all the independent steel and iron companies that reduced wages, when late in February, the United States Steel Corporation declared for an "open market," will have restored wages to the old schedules.

A tthe time of the wage cut it was estimated that it would be six months before business conditions would warrant a resumption of the old scales, and it was a source of surprise even to the steel officials that conditions have been so good of late to warrant a restoration.
